OHIO KLANSMEN MEET AND ARE NOT MOLESTED

Authorities Say Steubenville Situation Is Well in Hand.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Steubenville, Ohio, Aug. 18.—State, county and city officials joined today, after a peaceful night in Steubenville following outbreaks of violence and riot between members of the Ku Klux Klan and irate towns people, in the belief that the present phase of the trouble was over, and the situation well under control.

Klansmen last night held an "invitation conclave," at Knoxville, a little town 11 miles back in the country, that passed off quietly and without disorder. The Klansmen had asked protection, but were assured by the sheriff that no trouble was likely. They held their meeting unmolested and returned to Steubenville early this morning.

A similar meeting held at Lisbon near here last night, was concluded peacefully and without disorder of any kind.

Governor Donahey told International News Service that he believed the situation was well in hand.

Sheriff Edward Lucas declared today that while Steubenville never "was" a Sunday-school town, this so-called riot was not near as bad as it has been painted."

"We have the situation well in hand and anticipate no further trouble," the sheriff said.

Mayor Frank Hawkins and Chief of Police Blaine Carter defied the threats of the Klan to remove them from office and joined with the other authorities in deprecating the seriousness of the situation.

COOLIDGE TO SEEK LOWER TAXES

When Congress Convenes—Lower Surtaxes and Less Burdens on Small Incomes Sought—To Press Fight Against Tax-Exempt Securities.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Lower taxes will be strongly recommended to the next congress by President Coolidge, it was learned today. The president will seek a better adjustment of the tax burden, to satisfy urgent demands from all classes that the present revenue law is operating unfairly, actually deprives the government of larger revenues, and that it should be radically revised.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, in his report to congress, which will be cited by the president in his message, will urge that congress make possible the creation of new revenue sources by lowering surtaxes. Secretary Mellon will recommend a reduction to a 25 per cent surtax from the present level of 50 per cent.

Adoption of a lower surtax proposal, the administration contends, will make it easily possible to lower the income tax rates on moderate incomes. Most of the discontent now evinced from high federal taxes is the result of the present high scale of rates on small incomes below the $5,000 class. Men with moderate incomes are hardest hit in present application of the revenue act, for they constitute the larger percentage of the country's taxpayers, though not the majority share of the taxes collected.

Secretary Mellon will stress the need of action by congress to lift the tax yoke off industry to permit the spread of capital into new channels, out of the hiding places in to which wealth has gone since the prohibitively high surtaxes were authorized.

Treasury's views today was that only by this method will it be possible to secure an equalization of the tax burden. The administration will renew its fight against tax free securities. The treasury today estimated that $15,000,000,000 of American wealth is now sunk into tax free securities from which the government obtains no revenue. This wealth, officials said, can be partly influenced into productive fields if the exemptions now in force are lifted. This must be done, they said, if a better readjustment of the tax problem is to be accomplished.

FALLON FAILS TO APPEAR, FACES CONTEMPT CHARGES.

New York, Aug. 18.—William Fallon, attorney who for a time directed the defense of E. M. Fuller and William F. McGee, convicted bucketshop operators, today faced a charge of contempt of court.

Keyes Winter, trustee for creditors of Dillon & Company, another bankrupt brokerage company, was to appear before a federal court today asking that Fallon be cited for failure to respond yesterday to a subpoena to appear for questioning. WELL, WHY NOT? ASKS MURRAY

Movement to Nominate Martin More Lawful and Ethical Than Democratic "Machine's" Designation of Block.

Editor, The Freeman:

In this morning's issue of the "Leader" great surprise is affected over the circulation of petitions bearing the name of William B. Martin as a candidate in the primaries for the nomination for mayor. The writer of that article knows that Mr. Martin's friends are strictly within their rights in circulating such a petition. As a matter of fact Mr. Block's friends are doing the same thing for him. Showing of course that from a strictly legal standpoint the alleged convention is without force and effect, being merely a gesture on the part of the alleged "prominent" Democrats. Does the Leader advocate strictly machine politics or shall the enrolled Democrats of this city be allowed to voice their preference in the only manner provided for by law—the primaries. It is a well known fact that at the various caucuses held in the wards throughout the city there was not an average of five voters present and this corporal's guard sent themselves to represent the Democrats of the city at an unofficial convention. The question that the Democrats will answer at the primaries on September 18th is, who do you want as your candidate for mayor? A man chosen by yourselves by your own votes, or a hand picked candidate foisted upon you by a small group of self styled "prominent" Democrats. Mr. Martin is a "regular" Democrat and will be bound by the freely expressed verdict of the people as to their choice in the primaries September 18th. Can the same be said of Mr. Block and will the chairman of the city committee subscribe to the foregoing.

MRS. STOKES EXPLAINS SUIT AGAINST "WEDDIE."

Is to Make Him Confess He Blackened Her Name.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes today explained her million dollar suit against her stepson, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., in which her attorney, Charles Erbstein, filed the praecipe late yesterday.

Mrs. Stokes said the suit was the final action to clear her name of accusations brought by the elder Stokes in his recent unsuccessful suit for divorce.

She said she had given "Weddie," as the son is called by his father, ample opportunity to deny the famous "Darling Pop" letter in which the son said he had been intimate with his stepmother.

"I won my suit in New York and it was proved that the witnesses who testified against me were bought and paid for. Since then some of them made their confessions of perjury to the district attorney in New York.

"I have relentlessly traced every person who had anything to do with the baseless accusations made against me, and I am now after the last one of them.

"I have no desire of disgracing Stokes, Jr., and I communicated with him on my arrival in order that he might be given an opportunity of also confessing that the statements that he made against me were not true.

"He has avoided the issue—hence the suit."

MARY BAUER KILLS SELF WITH POISON

Note Left by Her Asks That Dog Be Killed, Also, Which Is Done—Elderly Woman Had Lived Alone on Adams Street.

After writing a letter to a neighbor asking her to take charge of the money in her possession and to see that her dog was killed by the police, Mary Bauer, who lived alone at No. 42 Adams street committed suicide this morning by swallowing about an ounce of strychnine.

The letter was written to Mrs. Anna Gage of No. 15 Adams street, who was praised by Miss Bauer for being good and kind to her, and was delivered personally at the Gage home by Miss Bauer.

When Mrs. Gage found the letter, she went to the Bauer house and seeing no indication of Miss Bauer's presence, telephoned to police headquarters. The message was received there about eleven o'clock and Chief Wood at once despatched Sergeant Phinney and Officer Burger to the Bauer home. They found the door unlocked.

Miss Bauer was found lying on her face on the floor. A short distance away was the empty strychnine bottle, and only a few inches away was a small glass evidently used by her in drinking the poison.

Drs. Henry Van Hoevenberg and E. H. Loughran were notified but on their arrival found Miss Bauer was dead. Death probably had followed almost immediately after taking the poison. Coroner W. Norman Conner was notified and took charge of the remains.

In her letter to Mrs. Gage, Miss Bauer referred to her poor health and said she was sorry for what she was going to do. She also asked that $140 be paid to the Rev. Father Neumann.

A lady's handbag was found to contain $146.70, a pair of diamond earrings and other jewelry, besides the keys of the house. These were all turned over to Chief Wood.

Miss Bauer was about 53 years old. She is survived by a brother and sister, both of this city.

For a number of years she had lived alone. The house had not been swept for some time and dust was so thick on the floors that her course through different parts of the house could easily be traced.

In accordance with her request, her faithful dog was gasoeuted at police headquarters at noon.

COAL FACTIONS FORMULATE PROGRAMS FOR NEW CONFERENCE ON MONDAY

Will Hold Knotty Points Back Until Agreement Has Been Reached on Others But Both Sides Declare They Will Not Concede Anything.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—Mine operators of the anthracite field today formulated the program they will advance at the reopened joint conference of owners and miners, scheduled for Atlantic City Monday, at a brief, informal conference here.

The operators, it was stated at their offices, had not receded from their position as announced on July 27, when the original conference broke up in a deadlock over the check-off system.

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—A meeting to formulate the position of the anthracite mine operators in the negotiations with the miners beginning at Atlantic City Monday, was scheduled to be held here today.

The central committee of anthracite mine owners, headed by Samuel D. Warriner, of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, will lay its plans with a view of avoiding, at all costs, a suspension in the coal fields September 1, according to Warriner, who arrived here this morning.

Efforts will be made by the operators, Warriner said, to have the knotty problems go over to the end of the conferences, with the miners, and will strive for a pledge from the miners to continue work until a new contract is signed, making all agreements eventually reached retroactive to September 1.

The operators, as a last resort, would suggest that President Coolidge appoint arbitrators to decide questions the principals are unable to agree on.

The operators' committee will leave for Atlantic City tomorrow.

New York, Aug. 18.—Activities in the anthracite coal controversy shifted temporarily to Washington today, where the United States coal commission was to report to President Coolidge on the conference which began here Wednesday in an effort to avert a strike September 1.

Meanwhile, members of the operators and miners' committees, virtually forced by the commission late yesterday to agree to resume negotiations were marking time until Monday morning when they will again go into joint sessions at Atlantic City in a last attempt to reach an agreement on a new contract before the present contract expires August 31.

The coal commission's report to the president today will be without comment or recommendation, consisting solely of the diverging positions of the operators and miners as expressed in their letters and documents filed with the commission.

"If they are unable to reach an agreement at Atlantic City and another deadlock results, the commission will then make its recommendations," declared Chairman John Hays Hammond, of the commission.

In the agreement to resume negotiations at the point where they were broken off July 27, in Atlantic City, by the miners' demand for the check-off and the operators' refusal to recognize it, there were no indications either side had retreated from its position on the chief points of difference.

With denials from the commission, the operators and the miners that any pressure had been brought by either the commission or President Coolidge, the breaking up of the deadlock was attributed to the commission's threat to issue a public statement on the matter.

In view of this, neither side could afford to turn down the commission's request "to get together" again as the commission statement undoubtedly would have contained harsh reference to the position of both sides.

While no program has been announced for the resumed negotiations it is understood that the check-off and closed shop issues in the list of miners' demands will be passed over to the end of the conference, after an agreement has been reached on other points.

The operators' position, as outlined by Samuel D. Warriner, is still one of opposition to the check-off. They want an agreement to prevent suspension of work if a new contract is not signed, and arbitration on points which cannot be agreed upon.

The miners have refused to indicate in advance what they will do, but have declared they will not arbitrate. The final statement of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, was that no coal will be mined after September 1 if a new contract is not signed by that time.

The miners' list of demands contained eleven points, but actually only eight remain, and the operators have agreed to abandon the 12-hour day, to arrange for quick disposition of grievances and to adjust rate sheets.

NEW REPARATIONS PLAN WON'T DO

Coolidge Won't Permit American Taxpayers, by Cancelling Debt, to Pay France What She Is Trying to Screw Out of Germany.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Premier Poincare's latest effort to get President Coolidge to take a hand in the European reparations dispute by proposing to reduce French claims against Germany in accordance with possible reductions in the war debts which France owes the United States and Great Britain, is certain to meet with failure, administrations officials declared today.

Not only is the president determined to carry out the mandate of congress for the collection of every cent owed the United States by France and other nations, but he has embraced the policy of the Harding administration in holding that this government cannot and will not recognize any connection between the payment of these war debts and the amounts to be collected from Germany under the Versailles treaty.

France now owes the United States approximately $4,000,000,000 and it is the intention of the administration, acting through the world war debt funding commission, to hold France to her obligation and to conclude an agreement with the French government providing for the payment of the entire amount, including the steadily mounting interest. There will be no cancellation and no reduction, for that would mean that the debt would have to be paid in the ultimate by American taxpayers instead of France.

The Poincare plan to embroil the United States in the reparations tangle through the medium of the billions of dollars which this government has outstanding in Europe, has further convinced administration officials that American interests would be served by taking any part in the quarrel now going on between France and Great Britain.

It was made plain, therefore, that there is nothing in the newest French proposal to cause any change in the policy of the administration, as outlined by Secretary of State Hughes in his note this week to the American embassy in London.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. GRASSHOPPER

"They showed pictures of members of our family the other night," said Mr. Grasshopper. "Yes, there was a meeting of naturalists. Naturalists are creatures who study creatures such as us!

"She's a Humbug."

"And, of course, they study other animals and insects and birds and so forth and so on."

"So on?" asked George Grasshopper.

"Just an expression, George, meaning that they study others along the the very same lines."

"But grasshoppers haven't the same lines as lions," said George Grasshopper.

"Oh, I don't mean such lines," said Mr. Grasshopper. "I mean along the same branches of life—of the animal kingdom and so forth."

"Oh, well, I suppose I understand," said George Grasshopper. "Maybe if I hop a few times I will see it clearly. Sometimes when I am tired and I'm not feeling smart and bright, if I hop a few times it seems to brace me all up."

"Oh, hopping is as good as a tonic to a grasshopper any day," said Mr. Grasshopper.

"Well," he continued, "I was going to tell you about these pictures they showed before learned people of our ways."

"Are naturalists learned people?" asked George.

"Learned about nature," said Mr. Grasshopper. "Or, at least if they're not so learned they're always studying nature creatures and trying to be learned.

"They showed pictures of the naughty Praying Mantis. You know, or at least you have heard, how she looks as though she were praying to hide from people the fact that she is really a very naughty creature. She's a humbug, though her name is Praying Mantis.

"And they showed pictures of the compound eyes of the fly, and how the fly sees the same thing so many times over—at the same time, too.

"That may sound curious but you know what I mean. A fly has so many eyes one would say, or at least can see so many times over with the eyes he has because of their being compound eyes. And then they showed pictures of us as I have told you.

"They were splendid pictures, I heard, and the people laughed with delight over the wonderful circus stunts we could do.

"We were seen hanging onto twigs and climbing over them and doing all sorts of really marvelous circus tricks and they were surprised at the muscle we had and at the strength we had and that we were such athletic grasshoppers.

"And it seems very fine to me to think that pictures of us are shown as well as pictures of wild west scenes and of funny happenings of people.

"For the grasshopper is truly a fine circus performer."

"Now, that makes me think I'd like to get up a circus now," said George Grasshopper.

"The same thought that just went through my grasshopper mind," said Mr. Grasshopper.

"Let us tell the other grasshoppers about it," said George.

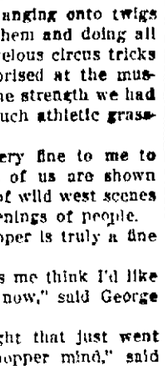
So Mr. Grasshopper and George Grasshopper went about and told the other grasshoppers that they were going to give a circus.

And all the grasshoppers joined in the preparations.

Some formed a band, others decided they would do tricks on twigs—pulling themselves up and over the twigs and doing really nothing short of fine trapeze stunts.

Then others began thinking of all the funny things they could say and do so they could take the parts of clowns.

Still others decided they would ride each other and have races and superior exhibitions. And still others said they would have famous grasshopper hopping races.



"Such Athletic Grasshoppers."

They all practiced and practiced and Mr. Grasshopper was chosen as the ring master.

They invited the mothers and fathers in the grasshopper families to come, and they invited the very young grasshoppers, too.

And when they all arrived and then saw the circus—well, there was such applause and such excitement.

They, too, hopped about with excitement and cried:

"Bravo, grasshoppers, bravo!"

And Mr. Grasshopper and George Grasshopper were delighted at the success of the Grasshopper Circus.

Frozen dishes are the most sought after during the heated term. There are so many kinds of ices, sherbets, mousses, frappes and creams that one need not serve the same one many times.

Grape Sherbet.—Take one teaspoonful of gelatin, one tablespoonful of cold water, one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of cold water. Cook the sugar and water and cool. Dissolve the gelatin in the tablespoonful of water and add to the hot syrup. Let the mixture cool, add one cupful of grape juice and a tablespoonful of lemon juice, mix well and freeze. This will make a quart.

Apricot Ice.—Soak four cupfuls of dried apricots in four cupfuls of water until soft, cook until tender. Press through a potato ricer to remove the skins. Add one-half cupful sugar to the pulp, then the water in which they were soaked and cook for ten minutes. Remove from the fire, cool, add the juice of three lemons and freeze. When partly frozen add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Finish freezing.

One-Two-Three Sherbet.—Take the juice of one lemon, two oranges and three cupfuls of thin cream, adding sugar to sweeten—a cupful or slightly more will be sufficient—and freeze as usual.

Fruit Ice Cream.—Take a quart of crushed strained berries, or ripe peaches, put through a sieve, adding a tablespoonful of lemon juice to any fruit juice, sweeten to taste and add a quart of thin cream. One may have two or more fruits if desired. Banana pulp, prepared by putting bananas through a sieve, orange and lemon juice, sugar and cream make a delicious combination. Freeze as usual.

Delicious Dessert.—Split a layer and spread with vanilla or chocolate ice cream, cover with the other half and pour a hot chocolate sauce over it; serve at once. Fruit ice cream may be used with a nut sauce or plain ice cream with a fruit sauce in the cake in the same manner.

LAKE HILL.

Lake Hill, Aug. 17.—On Saturday last, a most enjoyable Children's Garden party was given by Mr. and Mrs. T. G. S. Hooke of Wildwood Farms, in honor of their nephew, Master Jewett Foster of Englewood, N. J. All the old fashioned games were played, and solo dances were given by little Miss Natalie Coffey and Marie Ford. The tables which were laid on the lawn, were most tastefully decorated with wild clematis and golden glow. Each child received a pretty favor, and the snappers afforded no end of amusement. Among the children present were Helen Staples, Pearl Lane, Elizabeth and Edith Johnston, Travis and Lauren Peters, Irene, Edna and Natalie Coffey, Joe Coffey, Laddie Shultis, Elizabeth Hewson, Margaret, Florence, Mary and Beatrice Sellers, Jewett Foster, Maurice and Felix Levy-Hawes and Marie Ford. The grown-ups assisting Mr. and Mrs. Hooke, were Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Foster, Mrs. Coffey, Capt. and Mrs. J. R. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Peters, Mrs. Lule Eighmey de Villa, Mrs. Elizabeth Wagoner, Mrs. Raymond Ford, Mrs. Ida Jerolamon and Miss Ida Leadley.

Week end guests at Wildwood Farms were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hewson and Miss Elizabeth Hewson of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Harrison of New York, Mr. and Mrs T. Hamilton Birch of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Foster of of Englewood, N. J.

Useful Walking Stick.

A curious custom obtains in some portions of Spain in regard to betrothals. A young man who looks with favor upon a beautiful senorita, and wishes to gain her hand, calls on the parents for three successive days, at the same hour of the day. At the last call he leaves his walking stick, and if he is to win the desired bride the cane is handed to him when he calls again.

Oil stocks were steady, California Petroleum rising ⅛ to 21⅜. Cosden Oil yielded ⅛ to 21¾. Sinclair unchanged at 21¾. Maryland up ¼ to 30½ and Producers and Refiners up ⅜ to 29¼. Canadian Pacific advanced ⅛ to 146. Southern Pacific ⅛ to 86⅛. Rock Island ½ to 23. Southern Railway ⅛ to 32⅝, and Reading ⅛ to 75½.

KRAUS—In sweet and loving memory of our darling daughter, Ruth, who died August 19, 1921.

Dear little hands, I miss them so!
All through the day, wherever I go,
All through the night how lonely it seems,
For no little hands wake me out of dreams
I miss them all through the weary hours,
I miss them as others do sunshine and flowers,
Day-time or night-time wherever I go,
Dear little hands, I miss them so.

Habit of the "Trader Rat."

The trader rat is the common wood rat, the bushy-tailed rat of western and northern America. This rat does make a practice of leaving something in place of food, etc., that it may have stolen. This is not an intelligent act on the part of the rat, however, but is due to the fact that the rat sees the food when it is carrying bits of sticks or paper in its mouth, which it generally drops when finding the food.

Oldest Known Will.

A will executed in 2548 B. C. is the oldest extant. It is written on papyrus by an Egyptian named Uah. In it he gave his home and other property to his wife, to be left by her to any of her children; arranged for the burial of himself and wife, and appointed a guardian for a son. In fact the will differs little from one which might be executed today.

HOURS OF SLEEP

What Really Constitutes a Good Night's Rest?

Old Tab Apportioning Time to Men, Women, and Fools Does Not Seem to Fit the Case.

"How many hours do you sleep?" The question was put to me recently, and I answered:

"About seven, off and on. I manage four hours, then I lie awake for one or two and drop off again, feeling sleepiest when I should arise."

That, I suppose, means that I am not sleeping healthfully, remarks a London Answers writer. But I cannot help it. The more one strives to coax slumber the farther away it seems to drift.

Yet my questioner has perplexed me. He has, in a sense, made me nervous.

How many hours a night do you sleep? And are you satisfied that on awakening you are always completely rested?

The old tab—"Six hours' sleep for a man, seven for a woman, eight for a fool"—has been the bane of my existence for years. I have always tried to persuade myself that I must be very foolish, because the more sleep I can get the better I am pleased

One man known to me gives appreciative backing to this standpoint, for he says:

"I must be a very real fool, for I sleep nine hours solid out of every twenty-four."

What is the minimum necessary for purposes of health? One reads about distinguished politicians and authors and inventors who do with four hours' sleep a night. Are they supermen physically as well as mentally, or is there some enviable peculiarity in their makeup?

Is the whole thing a matter of personal habit or constitution, or should one be forced to rest in bed, even if unconsciousness cannot be attained, for a certain number of hours out of every day?

A novelist friend of mine who is one of the hardest-working and, at the same time, one of the healthiest men I know, confessed to me recently that he seldom went to bed before 2, and always rose about 7 a. m.

It would be an exaggeration to say that I was amazed, but certainly I was surprised. Also, I was uneasy. I couldn't help feeling that, compared with him, I was a woeful slug-a-bed.

Happily for my peace of mind, I learned later that, though he spent only some five hours in his bed, it was his pleasant habit to snooze in an armchair for at least one hour every day after luncheon.

So far as one can judge, the hours of sleep required by each individual are peculiar to that individual. Yet certain sections of the community have, willy-nilly, to ration themselves as to their period of dreamless or nightmarish insensibility.

Sailors, for instance, learn very soon that four hours at a time is their customary ration, though, thanks to the dog watch, they get automatically eight hours off after the shorter spell.

Obviously, too little sleep must be bad for one, yet in certain medical quarters it has been argued that too much sleep is almost as harmful.

Perhaps some one—doctor layman—will come forward with a statement calculated to comfort and instruct plain John Smith and his wife.

One Sale Lost.

They were strangers in Detroit, and they were standing in front of a large department store, just ready to start on a tour of the city. The little girl, eight years old, was pleading with her mother for permission to go into the store and buy "something"—just anything would do—with the money in the little brown purse she clutched. Apparently it was her summer's savings. At last the mother, trying to present arguments against spending it just then, hit on a happy one. "Tomorrow we'll be in Niagara Falls, Jane," she said, "and then you can buy lots nicer things for a little girl." And Detroit lost a sale.

Inaccurate Observation.

Senator Borah was talking about Rudyard Kipling's slur on America's war record.

"Kipling lived here once," he said, "but he doesn't understand us. His remarks are about as accurate as the mountain farmer's on his return from the city.

"'Yep,' said the mountain farmer, 'the hull town is full o' cabs with cash registers on 'em and red flags to show it is dangerous to dispute the fare. The town folks call 'em taxidermy cabs because the drivers skin ye.'"

English as She Is Spoken.

Joe and Jackson were typically stalwart young Americans, friendly yet somewhat inclined to boasting of their respective families.

Joe said: "You ought to see my father—he has electricity in his hair.

Jackson replied: "That's nothing; my father has rats in his belfry."

Wood Cutters Not on Job.

Wood choppers have disappeared, and in all the big wood centers of eastern Connecticut, where thousands of cords should be piling up, not a single tree is being felled. Prophecies are made that wood will go up to $20 a cord, if not higher, by early winter. —New York Herald.

Ignore Supper Law.

One of the ridiculous acts of parliament still in existence in England is that passed in the reign of Edward III, regulating the meals of the people, which forbids more than two courses being served at dinner or supper, except on certain holidays. Needless to say, the law is broken with impunity.

CRITICISM OF PRESIDENTS.

There has been much regretful talk, with probably good reason to support it, about breaking down our presidents, with overwork. This has been followed by the intimation that President Harding was slain by unjust criticism. The first discussion was non-partisan; in the second there is obviously enough of "politics" to make it serviceable in the coming political campaign. Ambassador Herrick, who arrived from France a few days ago, and whose personal friendship with the late president was of twenty years' standing in their native Ohio, is thus quoted.

"The severe criticism directed at Warren Harding broke the man's heart, I believe. When I was here last summer we discussed the bitter criticism leveled at him, and, knowing the man as I did, I could see easily that his great heart was near to breaking because of the injustice of his critics."

Presumably Mr. Herrick's criticism is aimed at the leaders of and writers for the opposition party, but no man in public office is likely to allow his heart to be broken by the complaints or charges of his political enemies, which he expects as a matter of course. It is the criticism of his political friends that hurts. The public criticism from Democratic circles could have disturbed President Harding but little if at all. No president can read the half of what is said of him and he is apt to leave to competent secretaries the task of keeping him informed of the general trend of the opposition's criticism. It has been stated that such was the policy of President Wilson in connection with the constant and often bitter attacks of his political opponents. President Harding seemed to be profoundly disturbed by the disagreement and opposition within his own political organization. His heart was set on harmony in the Republican party and his failure to bring it about no doubt grieved him. Criticism was doubtless more constant in Democratic newspapers, but it was hardly as bitter or sarcastic as that which appeared now and again in the organs of Republican factions, and it is only reasonable to believe that the latter disturbed the late president far more than the former.

It should be added that a watchful and critical opposition is demanded by the very nature of our government through parties. It is also worth while to remember that the drain on a president's vitality is manifold and continual, the mere demand that he appear in public so often and deliver so many addresses on so many subjects, apart from his regular duties, involving a severe tax. It is pertinent to add, further, that a president is more likely to be misled by flattery and adulation—for it is his honest admirers and self-seeking flatters who are likely to get and hold his ear—than to be heart-broken by the criticism of his political opponents, which he expects as a matter of course and discounts for that reason.

Recent action on the part of Belgium insures to the United States preferential tariff rates on automobiles, rubber goods, typewriters, sewing machines, leather goods, and machinery. We have a considerable business in sales of those goods to Belgium. Is that the sort of retaliation the Democrats meant when they said the European nations would try to close us out of their markets for passing the Fordney-McCumber tariff law? If it is we can stand more of it.

President John Adams, who was of an autocratic temper, and caused editors to be jailed for criticism which would now be regarded as relatively mild, once sarcastically proposed that the title of the vice-president be made "His Superfluous Excellency." He would have been less sure of the superfluity of vice-president if he could have foreseen that between his time and the first week in August, 1923, six of them would become president of the United States.

The fact that their father has been suddenly called to the presidency has not disturbed the summer program of John Coolidge and Calvin Coolidge, Jr. The former is attending the citizens' military training camp at Camp Devens, Massachusetts, while the latter is earning $3.50 a day on a tobacco farm in the same state. The boys are an example in practical patriotism and thrift that ought to be taken to heart by our other young men, and the manner of their bringing up is an object lesson for every parent in the country. Were the Coolidge standard to be applied to all of our rising generation there would be no need for worry about the future of our nation.

2. How old does a lion have to be to have a mane?
3. What is a poison oak?

Answers in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Is it true bears can catch salmon?

Yes, especially when salmon are running upstream to spawn, and are crowded in the water and are hampered in their movements. But bears are good fishermen at other times, and have been known to catch trout. Though they look clumsy, they make very swift motions with their paws, and can stun a fish with a whack, then clawing it out of the water.

2. Can alligator eggs be eaten?

Yes, and this fact has helped to exterminate the alligator in the south. Eggs are also taken by persons who want to experiment with hatching and raising a baby alligator,—usually without success, and this foolish practice also helps to reduce the number of alligators. Too much of our wild life is sacrificed to amateur "collectors."

3. Why are little turtles so much prettier than the big ones?

We suppose you mean why do they show so much brighter markings. We suppose as the shells thicken with age and take on more layers of cells, the pigmented spots get gradually buried and look dimmer. Some adults do keep their gay marks, as the painted turtles, with bright red spots as borders to the carapace or upper shell.

NEW HUPMOBILE IS ON DISPLAY

The new and larger Hupmobile with many improvements and refinements throughout chassis and body is now on display at the Stuyvesant Garage on Clinton avenue, local Hupmobile distributors. The new Hupmobile comes in the usual seven Hupmobile models, touring car, roadster, special touring car, special roadster, two passenger coupe, four passenger coupe and sedan. Officials of the company claim that the new model will out perform any previous Hupmobile and that through longer wheel base, by changing the interior dimensions, by lengthening the front and rear springs and by a re-distribution of weight a materially easier riding car has been produced.

In the new car the crank-shaft is counter-balanced and its weight increased to eliminate all tendency to whip or spring and the bearing areas are 20 per cent larger. Split skirt pistons and connecting rods are of light weight aluminum alloy. Each piston weighs five ounces less than the previous gray iron type. Connecting rods are drop forged lightweight alloy type, 13 ounces lighter per rod but stronger than steel.

The new two plate clutch is exceptionally easy to operate and affords silent gear changes at any speed. Clutch plates are of spring steel, slightly concaved, making engagement easy and soft. The transmission gears are larger in diameter, heavier and consequently longer lived. They are made of high carbon alloy steel, oil treated and tempered.

Three inches has been added to the wheelbase making the Hupmobile now 115 inches. The extra space permits moving the front axle two inches farther ahead of the motor, thus changing the distribution of weight and insuring easier riding qualities. By lengthening the front spring from 36½ to 37¾ inches and the rear spring from 51½ to 56½ inches the spring action is easier and consequently the riding comfort increased.

The frame is now six inches in depth with five cross members. The shackle bolts have been increased 50 per cent in bearing surface which gives longer wear and freedom from noise.

To improve body appearance and insure further comfort many body changes and refinements have been made. The radiator has been raised 2½ inches adding both to looks and to cooling efficiency. The cowl has been raised to harmonize, giving a greater streamline effect from radiator cap to windshield. Fenders are of the new style full crown design, developed by Hupp and the enamel and finish are now applied in Hupp's new enameling department.

The instrument board has been redesigned and the instruments so grouped as to give neatness and convenience. The gear shift lever is moved forward affording considerable more space to enter the driver's seat and giving more room in the front compartment. The rear compartment is also wider and has more leg room on account of the many conservative body changes by which curves have supplanted square corners and bevel edges.

In the touring car, low hung and snappy, as well as in the other models there has been many body changes which make toward a better looking car.

The new model is now on display at the Stuyvesant Garage where at all times there is a willing and courteous attendant ready to show the new models and demonstrate the new Hupmobile.

The touring car is finished in a new Hupmobile blue, with striping in a lighter blue. Both the special touring car and roadster are painted a new blue, slightly different from the touring car and the closed jobs are also done in a new blue. The prices of the new model range from $1,215 for the touring car to $1,750 for the five passenger sedan.

That Copper Brown Complexion Is Unhealthy

Weekly Health Talk
By Froude & Mac Kinnon, D's. C.

That healthy looking tan that follows exposure to sun and wind is distinctly different from the copper brown complexion which is often noted in victims of liver and kidney trouble. As in every other diseased condition, the cause lies within, and chiropractic spinal adjustments to restore normal elimination, is the most direct and effective way to reach the trouble.

The under activity of the liver and kidneys, which brings the trouble to the fore, is corrected when by chiropractic spinal adjustments these organs are enabled to get 100 per cent life impulses over the spinal nerves. It is obvious when the cause of the disease is known that there is no substitute, as nothing will correct the condition but the adjustment of spinal bones to their correct alignment.

AFTER YEARS OF SUFFERING HE FINDS RELIEF

"For years I was troubled with pain in the back and liver trouble. My complexion was brown as copper. Nearly every day I had severe headaches. I had a number of treatments from various doctors without benefit. An operation cost me one kidney and my appendix, then I consulted a chiropractor. I was gradually restored to health. I am writing this letter because I feel it is a duty to let others know my experience with chiropractic."—Anton Gajewski, Chiropractic Research Bureau Statement No. 13703.

Prepares Food by Freezing

Kelvinator—the refrigerating equipment which sets right into the ice box you now have—has opened up to housewives everywhere, a comparatively new method of food preparation.

Kelvinator is to the preparation of food by cold what the gas range is to the preparation of food by heat.

With Kelvinator any housewife can easily prepare delicious mousses, ices, sherbets, custards and salads, by simply leaving them in the Kelvinator ice-trays for a few hours.

The same ice-trays are used to freeze dainty cubes of ice in which maraschino cherries, sprigs of mint, or violets have been frozen, or which have been tinted or flavored to suit the drink.

Kelvinator eliminates the ice man. It automatically keeps the refrigerator at the same, low, even, cold, dry temperature, summer and winter.

At your request, a courteous Kelvinator representative will call and give you the complete story of Kelvinator. Or, why not come in and see it demonstrated?

COUGHLIN AND TRUEMAN SPEAK

At Mount Marion. One Urging Rural People to Take More Interest in Government and Other on Rural Education.

A most successful church fair and supper under the management of Miss Grace Sagendorf was held at Mount Marion Thursday evening, August 16. The supper which was enjoyed by residents and numerous visitors was pronounced by all to be of the highest excellence, proof of which was given by the fact, that at 9 p. m., the time set for the ending of the collation, many were trying to secure tickets nearly an hour after it became impossible to serve another guest.

The hall and grounds were brilliantly illuminated with electric lights, installed for the occasion by Robert Harder from a portable outfit that did most satisfactorily service.

The ladies who worked so faithfully to make this a success have great cause for rejoicing that their efforts were so signally rewarded. Many faces from Kingston, as well as from Hurley and far more distant places were observed, while the summer visitors formed no inconsiderable part of those present.

Addresses were made by Thomas Coughlin, attorney of Kingston, and W. Trueman of Lake Katrine. Mr. Coughlin spoke on the need of rural people taking larger interest in their local affairs and paid a high compliment to the ladies who supplied the supper, stating it to be next to impossible to talk after partaking of so sumptous a repast. Mr. Trueman spoke on the rural school problem, of which he has made quite a study, and said in part:

The problem of the rural school lies largely in the fact that it is the last human activity to fall a victim to the efficiency expert.

Our rural schools have a record of over a hundred years service practically unblemished, during which a wonderful work has been performed, the result of which has been apparent in every walk of life. During all this time the responsibility for the details of the rural schools has rested on the rural people who have built the school house, hired the teachers, collected the taxes and paid the bills without recompense or reward. The very fact of there being no money in it has kept it free from the grasp of the politicians and for the same reason the experts have left it severely alone.

Now, however, we are faced with a new situation and the patrons of the rural schools find themselves between the devil of the efficiency expert and the deep sea of the politician.

Having reached a point in our history where one in every 60 is an office holder and every available avenue for creating more has reached the saturation point, it has been found necessary to discover fresh fields and pastures new to take care of the annual output of our colleges and universities. To further this highly laudable and ingenious arrangement it has been found necessary to condemn our rural school system, which by the aid of the efficiency experts has been done through the activities of the Committee of 21, who in their turn have now placed the whole matter in the hands of the politicians, to whom they are now pleading and promising in an effort to get the entire management of the rural schools out of the hands of the rural people, at least so far as the management is concerned, for they will graciously allow us to pay for it all in future as we have done in the past. The whole scheme came near being put through the last legislature, its defeat at that time causing one of its proponents to state: "It will be impossible to get this school bill through unless it can be done when the rural people know nothing of it."

This makes our duty clear and again proves the wisdom of the statement that liberty can only be had at the cost of eternal vigilance.

World's Longest Poem.

The longest poem on record is Spenser's "Faerie Queens." It is only a quarter the length of the original plan, yet it is as long as Homer's "Iliad" and "Odyssey" and Virgil's "Aenid" put together, and more than three times bigger than Milton's "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained" in one.

MANY DIE IN TYPHOON IN CHINA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 18.—Many lives are believed to have been lost in the region of Hong Kong during the worst typhoon in history, said a Central News Dispatch from Hong Kong this afternoon.

The storm lasted an hour, during which the wind blew 130 miles an hour. The steamship Mingsang is reported to have been sunk in the harbor, with the loss of all hands.

The British submarine L. 10 was sunk and, so far as known, only one member of the crew was saved.

Two Japanese steamships were driven ashore. Many other steamships were wrecked. The coast is strewn with debris.

"TUT TUT" SHOW AT CHEAPEST PRICES TONIGHT.

In bringing the popular attraction "Tut Tut" to Kingston the management of the Opera House secured special rates, lower than in any other place where the attraction has been shown.

"Tut Tut" has been playing to crowded houses wherever the troupe has appeared. It is said to be the brightest thing in the musical comedy line, and, with a big constellation of musical stars, with Jim McWilliams, the comedy hit of the season, at their head, the lively, mirthful and pleasing comedy is given with vim and tunefulness that is entrancing.

The troupe is a large one and the music, drama, plot, dancing and fun are all of the best.

OLIVET'S EQUIPMENT GETS STAMP OF APPROVAL.

A large number of people visited the new Olivet store at 632 Broadway Friday evening and expressions of admiration for its beauty were voiced by all. The large soda water counter and fountain of the finest marble with its silver plating, the sanitary arrangement for keeping of ice cream and for drawing the beverages and cleansing of glasses, and the fact that no ice is used, cooling being done by an electric power refrigerating plant, was highly commended by all who were shown its workings. The women visitors were given rosebuds as souvenirs by Mrs. Olivet and the men visitors cigars by Mr. Olivet. The store will be opened for business next week.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Jinnie

Far be it from us to knock a pretty girl. But too often the only connection between beauty and brains is that they begin with the same letter.

After all, there are some things to be said in favor of jazz music. For instance, few persons can whistle it.

If you see a man who is continually smiling these hot days, don't be too sure he's crazy. He may be your ice man.

May we subtly revise it: "Variety is the vice of life?"

Most of the men who marry for money learn to think they deserved more than they got.

A bridge over San Francisco Bay will cost $6,500,000, being almost as expensive as auction bridge.

Good luck is the result of hard work.

Looks as though Germany's mailed first has been lost in the mails.

Rockefeller holds the non-stop making money record, but movie actors hold the non-stop marrying record.

Don't you come down till I get home, said I to my garter.

Chorus girls should be divided into three classes, as follows: Good lookers, good figures and those who can sing.

After the family has been outfitted for the summer: "Clothes break the man!"

"No, Genevieve, a bridal party has nothing to do with horses."

There is nothing new under the soil. A scratching hen only digs up the ancient animosity of any neighborhood.

The reason some men tell Satan to get behind them is because they wish to set a faster pace.

You Know Him.

A stingy cuss is Ignatz Hoss,
He never wants to come across.
He would treat you, but goodness knows,
His money's in his other clothes.

Another good sanity test is the possession of a car that is capable of making eighty miles an hour.

A bright smile is a golden asset in business. Try it yourself.

Another way to be satisfied with your lot in life is to keep the back part of it clear of rubbish.

Beauty is only skin deep, and because a bride looks lovely in her crepe de chine veil is no sign that her pies will be edible.

Woman is a failure—doesn't she go into the hands of a receiver?

Our idea of an optimist is the man who thinks he will have a chance to his foot on the rail again.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR Y.W.C.A. CAMP

The Y. W. C. A. camp at Ideal Park will open on Monday with one of the board of directors of the Y. W. C. A. as chaperon; a good friend to cook wholesome food, and that a-plenty, and Miss Passmore to superintend games and athletics, etc. One thing seems not quite clear to some would-be campers, and that is whether or no they will be obliged to do all the things scheduled on the day's program. They can do as they like in that matter. There will be a day's program which will include games, swimming, hikes, etc., and one can take part in these events or not as they like, but all will be expected to rise by a certain hour, be on hand at meal hours, and retire by a certain hour, all of which has been planned with an idea for making it a time of rest as well as recreation. The Pine Hill auto bus which will take the campers to Mt. Tremper, leaves the Kingston terminal on Crown street at 11 o'clock and 5:10 o'clock (daylight saving time), and all those who expect to go up Monday are asked to telephone the Y. W. C. A. headquarters, 1911, before going, so that there will be a conveyance to meet them at Mt. Tremper and take them up to the camp.

Those who so desire may go up to the camp for the week end and the price will then be $1.25 a day. Such campers should also notify the Y. W. C. A. headquarters of their intention.

Dr. Rudolph Hilferding

Dr. Rudolph Hilferding, Germany's new minister of finance and reparations in the Stresemann cabinet, is looked upon as the man who will be a leading factor in stabilizing the mark and paying German reparations to the Allies. Originally an Austrian and by faith a Jew, he became a naturalized German after the revolution. He is a Socialist and leader of the German Social Democratic Party. His book, "Das Finanz Capital," is a standard work on finances in Germany.

MISS WILLS MEETS MALLORY TODAY

Her Game Good Enough to Beat Norse Woman in Straight Sets But Molla Has a Jinx-like Influence.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 18.—One stroke is often a day's journey to a man in danger of drowning, one dollar takes an added significance when it is the last you have. Today, Helen Wills, a mere child in years, but wise in the lore of the tennis racquet, is within one match of the national championship in singles, but it carries at once the tribulations of a day's journey and the significance of last dollar. She is to meet Molla Bjurstedt Mallory in the final round.

Molla, the indomitable, the precise, the consummate in accuracy. Seven times national champion and shooting for the eighth, she is the final and ultimate barrier between Helen Wills and the title that must be inevitably hers. It will be a great match.

The Wills child has everything in her favor youth, speed, tactics and the strokes—but she is to meet Molla Mallory. That is usually enough. At least three members of the field that started in the championship have the game to beat Mrs. Mallory but they sacrifice accuracy on the altar of over anxiety when they face the champion. It remains for this afternoon to determine whether Helen will do likewise.

She, also, holds natural advantages over the woman who has dominated American tennis for seven out of eight years. In the matter of severity of service, there is no comparison, neither is there on the score of volleying, pace, the varying of length and the use of strategy. Helen could be figured to win in straight sets if it wasn't for the fact that Mallory is Mallory.

As far as Molla's play on American courts is concerned, she is the hardest woman to beat in the world. Her game lacks many little niceties that gladden the eye of the expert but she gets the points and wins the games. Her idea of tennis is to hit the ball across the net into court and defy her opponent to do likewise.

One year ago, almost to the day, Helen Wills faced the opportunity that is before her this afternoon. She failed, but Helen today, is a vastly improved player, and although Molla is a slight favorite, it is almost a certainty that she will not win in straight sets, if at all. In fact there is a furtive suspicion that the Wills child is not due.

Have Firm Belief in Devils.

The natives of Fiji believe firmly in ghosts or devils, pointing in proof to huge indentations in the rocks resembling footprints. Some devils are good, they say, and some are bad. One native told me that the devil on his island was an old man with a white beard, a harmless or good devil, who came out at nights to eat plantains. Probably the native had seen some old goat; hence the beard.—New York Tribune.

PAT COUTANT WINS ANOTHER

Game for Colonials—This Time the D. & H. Generals Are the Victims—Pat Holds Opponents to Five Hits and One Run—Score 6-1.

(Fan who has missed the last two or three games)—who is that fellow in the box for the Colonials?

(Fan who has been at the last two or three games)—Coutant is his name.

First Fan—Pat Coutant. Why he is the fellow that has been doing the pitching out at New Paltz for the fire department team there. Senitrick must be crazy sending a fellow like that against a team like the one that is playing here tonight. Why he has only got two or three curves in his whole assortment. He'll last just about two innings.

Third Fan (Sitting near the two other fans)—I agree with you. I saw that fellow pitch the other day and he did manage to get by, but it was more luck than anything else. Two innings will finish him against this bunch.

What Did Pat Do?

Pat was in the box at the end of the game, he held the D. & H. Generals to five hits and one run, and walked just one man. Furthermore in the fifth inning he had the bases loaded with only one out but nevertheless kept the Watervliet team from scoring.

And so it is that Pat Coutant is now given the credit of being a real pitcher by all those who saw his performance last night. Even the two dubious and rather pessimistic fans whose conversation wag related above have come to the conclusion that he has got just a little more on the ball besides his glove and some luck.

What Did the Colonials Do?

While Pat was doing his part his teammates were finding Benson, who was in the box for the up-state team, for eight hits and six runs. The fact that the local team managed to get six runs wasn't all the fault of Besson for at times he received miserable support from the rest of the club. However even if the Generals had played a perfect game in the field the Colonials would have won without any trouble.

Game Called in Seventh.

Due to darkness the game was called after the Generals had been to bat in the seventh inning.

Dahn the Star Hitter.

Freddie Dahn was the star hitter of the evening. Freddie was the only man on either team who managed to get more than one hit. Furthermore Freddie's second hit was a home run with McCue on the bags at the time.

The only other extra base blow in the game was Fogarty's three bagger which came in the first inning.

Pat Coutant got his first hit with the Colonials in the fourth inning when he hit over third base. He also scored a run on See's single later in the inning.

How They Came In.

The first run of the game was scored in the third inning and the Colonials were the team who put it over. A walk, two errors by the shortstop, and a sacrifice were responsible for the run being scored.

In the fourth inning a walk and two hits gave the Colonials two more runs.

In the fifth inning, three hits, including Dahn's homer, and an error on the part of the third baseman gave the Colonials three more runs and their total of six.

The Generals scored their only run in the fourth inning. Two hits and a stolen base were responsible.

Diamond Chips.

Even though the Generals seemed to be off their game they didn't lose any of that pep, for which they are noted, at any time.

It is hard to conceive how they could lose it anyway with Joe Sandy on third base.

If there was ever a pepper box in semi-pro baseball in this vicinity he is certainly the one.

Joe ought to make some other team besides a semi-pro club before long. He is only twenty-one years old. Well Joe when you get on the Yankees or some of the other big league clubs we'll appreciate that pep more than we do now.

Coutant looks as though he was going to develop into a real pitcher and with a little more coaching he will be up with the best of them. He is willing and that goes a good ways.

Dahn had his batting eye with him last night and used it very advantageously.

The sub-mascot, Eddie Burgevin, was right there with the pep.

Warhop, the ex-Yankee, was on the bench last night with the Colonials. He is going to pitch one game today.

The twilight games will have to start earlier now if the management expects to get in the full nine innings.

Now we are all ready to take three games from Oneonta. Let's go.

Mrs. M. Corcoran and family wish to thank their friends and relatives for their kind help and sympathy in the great loss of son and brother, John A. Corcoran.—Advertisement.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE BIG LEAGUES

Biting the hand that once fed him, George Burns socked a home run far up in the left field stands and in consequence the Reds gained an eleven inning decision over the Giants, 5 to 4.

"Bitter" Pillette, the untamed wildcat, was generous itself, his gratuities giving the Athletics a 7 to 6 victory over the Tigers.

George H. Ruth, the well known left fielder, made a personal matter of presenting the Yanks with a 5 to 4 victory over the Browns, his double in the eighth paving the way for Vangilder's ultimate defeat and his homer in the first giving the Yanks their first runs. The latter was his thirty-first home run of the season.

The Braves lost their fifteenth game in nineteen played with the Cubs, 6 to 2, Keen having a decided edge on the Boston pitcher.

The Senators moved into fifth place by scoring a ten inning victory over the White Sox, 6 to 4.

Jimmy Ring was rushed off the premises in the seventh, the Pirates winning from the Phillies with plenty to spare, 11 to 6.

Ainsmith's double with the bases filled in the twelfth gave the Cardinals an 8 to 5 decision over the Dodgers, the defeat marking the first Dazzy Vance had suffered after winning ten straight.

DOWNEY UNCONSCIOUS AFTER FIGHT WITH FIRPO

Sixteen-Ounce Gloves Used — Fight Went Ten Rounds.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 18.—Joe Downey, of Columbus, Ohio, was still unconscious at an early hour today after his 10 round fight last night with Luis Firpo, challenger for the heavyweight title. Downey lasted the full distance but had to be helped from the ring at the end of the fight, and collapsed in his dressing room. He was taken to the Methodist Hospital, where physicians were unable to determine immediately the nature of his injuries.

Downey took a severe beating, particularly in the tenth round, though 16 ounce gloves were used by order of Sheriff Snyder.

A change in the program to a "four round boxing exhibition" because Firpo claimed promoter Jack Druly had disappeared without paying him $4,000, was averted by Mayor Lew Shank's threat to send the principals to jail unless the original program was followed.
